

Writing Stimulus Sheet 1

The boy scaled the steep cliff, hoping to get a better view of the crowded beach below. Where was his family?

From the moment Sarah brought her new dog home from the shelter, she knew he was no ordinary dog. Today, Samson would prove just how special he was.

Lina, Matt and their father had arrived at Lake Tropic and were sitting around a campfire telling ghost stories. Scaring his little sister, Lina, was Matt's favourite part of going camping. Lina would always warn Matt that he should be careful with his stories, but really, who has ever heard of a ghost story coming true?

On his way to work that morning, Grant stopped to buy a newspaper. What he saw on the front page made him gasp.

Kerry took a deep breath and placed one foot on the ledge. She kept her eyes fixed on her parrot, Penny. She knew better than to look down.
