

Conjunctions

Conjunctions are words or phrases used to connect clauses or sentences.

Although, so and because can be used to begin a sentence.

and

or so

but because

yet

although

Join each simple sentence pair with an appropriate conjunction.

1. I really wanted to see the movie. It was on too late.

2. He had a test the next day. He studied hard.

3. The fisherman put bait on his hook. He cast his line.

4. Jane kept watering her garden. No plants would grow.

5. It wasn't Tiffany's birthday. She was given a present.

6. Would you like pizzas? Would you prefer burgers?

7. She wouldn't get wet. The lady took her umbrella.

8. I don't like fruit. I don't like vegetables.

Conjunctions Answers

Conjunctions are words or phrases used to connect clauses or sentences.

Although, so and because can be used to begin a sentence.

and	or	so
but	because	yet
	although

Join each simple sentence pair with an appropriate conjunction.

1. I really wanted to see the movie. It was on too late.
I really wanted to see the movie but/yet it was on too late.
Although I really wanted to see the movie, it was on too late.
2. He had a test the next day. He studied hard.
He had a test the next day, so he studied hard.
Because he had a test the next day, he studied hard.
3. The fisherman put bait on his hook. He cast his line.
The fisherman put bait on his hook and cast his line.
4. Jane kept watering her garden. No plants would grow.
Jane kept watering her garden yet/but no plants would grow.
5. It wasn't Tiffany's birthday. She was given a present.
Although it wasn't Tiffany's birthday, she was given a present.
It wasn't Tiffany's birthday but/yet she was given a present.
6. Would you like pizzas? Would you prefer burgers?
Would you like pizzas or burgers?
7. She wouldn't get wet. The lady took her umbrella.
So she wouldn't get wet, the lady took her umbrella.
She wouldn't get wet because the lady took her umbrella.
8. I don't like fruit. I don't like vegetables.
I don't like fruit or vegetables.