

Onomatopoeia

... are words that imitate sounds.

Onomatopoeia can be used to add action or excitement to writing. It helps the reader to 'hear' what is happening in the text.

For example:

Quack! Quack!

The angry duck
warned off the children.

