Industrial Revolution

Life in England during the Industrial Revolution was very hard. Many people lost their jobs because of the newly invented machines. As a result, people had moved to cities to look for work. The cities soon became overcrowded and there were not enough jobs for all the new arrivals. This meant that many people were very poor. People stole food and other items simply to survive. In order to reduce crime, the government introduced harsh penalties. It wasn't long before prisons were full.

To help ease prison overcrowding, the government used old ships that were no longer able to sail. These floating goals were called hulks. Hulks were miserable places to be locked up. They were dirty and cramped, which meant that diseases spread quickly. These ships were moored in rivers and harbours.
