

At the Beach

I can see a clear blue sky and crystal-clear water.
The golden sand that seems to stretch forever.

I can hear the roar of the waves, the crash and the splash.
The children as they shout happily.

I can smell the scent of the sunscreen on my skin.
The salt that is carried by gentle breeze.

I can taste the salt water as it splashes in my mouth.
Sand, seaweed, yuck!

I can feel the warmth of the smiling sun.
The cool water that splashes on my body.

