Ashley held her phone up, trying to point it towards the stage as best she could manage. It was hard to keep it steady with so many others reaching up to do the same. "Can you believe she's right there in front of us?" she shouted excitedly, not taking her eyes off the stage. Never in her wildest dreams did she imagine she would see her idol.

"Which one is she?" her Mum replied, standing on her tip toes.

Ashley was too excited to notice the question. This was already the best night of her life, and Ivy Green hadn't even sung her favourite song yet.
