

Ready to Go

Jim and Tony were going to a dress up party. The party was for Kelly's birthday.

"I am going to dress up as a vampire," Jim said during dinner.

"But I was going to dress up as a vampire!" said Tony, his brother.

"Why don't you dress up as a robot?" Jim asked.

Tony said, "No, I want to dress up as something scary." He thought for a moment, and then he said, "I know. I will dress up as a monster!"

Both boys started getting dressed after lunch. Jim put everything out on his bed and then he put on his costume. Jim was ready as quick as a flash. He looked at himself in the mirror. He wore a black cape, a bow tie and a pair of fangs. He also had on black boots. He looked in the mirror. He was looking pretty scary!

Then Jim went to Tony's room. Mum was helping Tony put on his costume. He was wearing old, torn clothes and had messy hair. He looked scary already.

"There we go. Now we just need a scar to go over this green face paint," said Mum. She carefully drew a large scar across Tony's forehead.

"Grrrrr! Now I am ready," Tony said.

Just then, they heard a knock on the door. Mum looked out the window. "It is Rick and his dad," said Mum.

"Then it is time to go. Thanks, Mum," said Jim. Jim grabbed the present and the boys ran out the door.
