

SHOW

DON'T

TELL

Daniel stared at the crumpled map in his hands. His gaze darted in every direction as he searched for a familiar landmark.

Daniel was lost.

Liana's eyelids drooped heavily and her steps became sluggish as she trudged wearily towards the bed.

Liana was tired so she went to bed.

Mateo stroked the soft fur of a playful kitten and then wandered through the aisles filled with chirping birds and wagging tails.

Mateo was in a pet shop.

